

Don't miss your chance to hear brash
young global food activist
DR. RAJ PATEL, acclaimed author of

Markets, Choice, and the Battle for the World's Food System

Thursday, September 25, 2008, 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.
William Doo Auditorium, 45 Willcocks St.
(just east of Spadina St., one streetcar stop south of Harbord St.)

As part of his academic training, Patel worked at the World Bank, World Trade Organization and the United Nations. He has since become an outspoken and noted critic of all these organizations, and has been teargassed on four continents protesting against his former employers.

- Wikipedia

What the Globe and Mail said about Stuffed and Starved:

In past years, the food system has been the focus of several writers... Patel significantly adds to the topic with a thorough and impassioned work that looks at how corporate control and global trade markets have wounded farmers and consumers around the world. He successfully connects the dots of seemingly disparate issues like hunger, obesity, free trade, rural depopulation and food safety to create the picture of a food system run by corporate greed.

This is the opening event of the Global Food Equity Speaker Series sponsored by New College Equity Studies, University of Toronto, the Toronto Food Policy Council, Hart House, and Meal Exchange. For more information, contact rajpatelevent@gmail.com.

The next not-to-be-missed day of celebrating and debating World Food Day will be held on Friday, October 17 at New College, U of T. Watch for information over email services, or email wfdtoronto2008@gmail.com.

HART HOUSE
MEAL EXCHANGE

TORONTO FOOD
POLICY COUNCIL

Immediately following this event on Sept. 25, at 6:00 p.m., Gremolata is hosting the “Good Food Hall” at Hart House. It will showcase some of Ontario’s finest farmers, artisanal food producers and purveyors. Please join them as a patron for the harvest season’s best party and be a part of food media history as they launch Gremolata.com. RSVP’d tickets are $20.00, with $10.00 from each ticket going towards The Stop Community Food Centre. The price of the ticket includes unlimited wine tastings, food, as well as items within the Good Food Hall. Tickets may be purchased in advance online at www.uofttix.ca